

Preliminary Findings from an Interview-based Study of Immigrants in Detention

UC Irvine Detention Research Project

Date

Tuesday
April 4th

Join us for a presentation of research conducted by the UC Irvine Detention Research Project. Studies have previously focused on the fear of deportation that undocumented immigrants experience or the consequences of deportation, few have considered what immigrants experience during the immigrant detention process. This ongoing study focuses on immigrant detainees held in two facilities in Orange County and includes participants from across Latin American and African countries.
